

“Prehistoric Foodways of the Lower Pecos Region” is December Topic

Jack Johnson, Integrated Program Resources Manager at the Amistad National Recreation Area-National Park Service, will speak at our December 16th meeting on the topic of “Prehistoric Foodways of the Lower Pecos Region.” The meeting location is the University of St. Thomas, Anderson Hall, room 103. We’ll start at 7:00 pm.

Jack will discuss major plants and their preparation with emphasis on preparing Sotol and Lechuguilla in earth ovens; using bedrock mortars with mesquite, walnuts, and acorns also will be touched on. He will provide information on hunting techniques for different animals (e.g., deer, rabbits, rodents, fish, etc., with atlatl, rabbitstick, nets, snares, poisons, etc.), comparing the Lower Pecos archeological record (including faunal remains, artifacts, and depictions in rock art) with ethnographic/ethnohistorical accounts. If all goes as planned, he will bring example lechuguilla and sotol plants and replica hunting weapons/traps.

Along the way, we will hear more about the “integrated program resources” management effort at Amistad.

Jack Johnson has worked in the Lower Pecos region of Texas since 2005, coming to the area as an intern under the previous park archeologist at Amistad. Since then he has worked as park interpreter at Seminole Canyon State Park and has developed hands-on educational curriculum for the non-profit SHUMLA, using ancient lifeways of the Lower Pecos region to teach science concepts to elementary students. He completed his MA in Anthropology from Texas Tech University in Lubbock in 2009, writing his thesis on earth oven cooking at a burned rock midden site in Mills County, Texas. Johnson is particularly interested in the various tools and techniques used to procure and process resources and in the spatial distributions of resources and prehistoric sites across the landscape of the Lower Pecos.

With an estimated 1,400,000 prehistoric artifacts in the park’s museum collection, Amistad National Recreation Area has the third largest collection in the National Park Service.

In addition, the Amistad NRA area is home to dramatic 4,000 year-old rock art. These mysterious paintings adorn rock shelter walls in the upper reaches of Amistad Reservoir, accessible only by boat (depending on lake level). Jack’s wife, Angel, who will be accompanying him, is an authority in her own right on rock art; she is a Research Assistant at the SHUMLA Archeological Research and Education Center.

Don’t Forget Goodies!

As usual for our December meeting, everyone is invited to bring good stuff to eat and enjoy a time of fellowship with people who share an interest in archeology. See you there!

President's Message

REMINDER: THIS MONTHS MEETING will be Thursday, December 16, 2010; 7:00 P.M. to 9:30 P.M. We will again meet in UST's Anderson Hall, Bldg. 20, Room 103. I plan a very brief meeting and adjournment for holiday refreshments and socializing. There is no one in charge of refreshments, so bring something to share.

THE LATEST ON BERNARDO: A few days ago, the CARI's field team led by Robert Marcom and Carol McDavid, project co-PI's, met with the Texas Historical Commission's director of archeology division, Dr. Jim Bruseth, and state archeologist, Pat Mercado-Allinger, to assess the Bernardo Plantation Archeological Project's status. Discussions centered around the project's budget; plans and priorities for future field work; the research necessary to put together the application for the National Register of Historical Places; the possibility / desirability of applying for Texas Archeological Landmark status if approved by the land owner, Greg Brown; and assessment and/or refinement of fieldwork procedures.

Research work has been done in regards to tracing the slave genealogy, and contacts have been made for the recording of oral histories of the descendants of Groce's slaves. Genealogist Debra Blacklock-Sloan and Carol McDavid are working on this but so far there have been no descendents willing to give oral histories. An approach working through churches may be tried.

The volunteers are very much appreciated for all their work. They have contributed enormously to accomplishing what has been done within budget. Their effort should also go a long way in showing the endowment entities that there is a lot of time being dedicated to the project by volunteers. As far as future field work goes, there probably won't be any scheduled until at least March, so keep your March calendar open.

WELCOME NEW MEMBERS: Irma Hasnain joined as a family membership during our last meeting and is already on Facebook. Also, a welcome goes out to Barney White.

I HOPE EVERYONE HAD A HAPPY THANKSGIVING AND I WISH ALL A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR.

--Charlie Gordy, President

Minutes of the HAS Meeting November 18, 2010

Meeting opened by Charlie Gordy, President, welcoming all members and guests and reminding all of sign-in sheets. Michael Bailey introduced the speaker, Amanda Danning, a forensic artist, who spoke on facial reconstruction in archeological projects.

Minutes were approved as printed in the Profile. Beth Aucoin announced that second lab originally scheduled for this month was cancelled. Information can be found on Facebook.

Diane Baird and Linda Swift spoke on the TAS annual meeting in October. Charlie Gordy was recognized for his work on the Barnardo Project. Lucia Bono reminded everyone to bring refreshments for the December 16 meeting, and to renew memberships. Budget review will be during January.

Next meeting will be in Anderson Hall, room 103. Tonight's refreshments were provided by Lucia Bonno and Beth Aucoin.

Motion to adjourn made by Jack Farrell, seconded by Linda Swift, motion passed. Meeting adjourned.

--Phyllis Bradley, Secretary

December Lab Night

Lab will be held on Dec. 13 only, due to the Christmas holidays. All labs meet from 7:00-9:00 pm in Room 103, Sewell Hall, Rice University. Our current project is documenting two collections from a prehistoric coastal-margin shell midden site. Reminder: A credit card is necessary to access the parking lot near Sewall Hall. For a map, check www.houstonarcheology.org.
